

What is a fee remission?

Fee remissions are institutional funds set aside by the university to assist students in the payment of their WOU tuition and educational fees. You can think of fee remissions like coupons. Similar to coupons, fee remissions can only be used toward specific items and cannot be used as cash. This means if you have more in fee remission awards than WOU tuition and educational fees you cannot use your entire remission award.

Example 1:

Moana is enrolled in 12 credits at WOU. Moana also has several fee remission scholarships through WOU. Since Moana has more in WOU tuition and educational fees than fee remission awards she may receive her full awards for the term.

Moana's student account:		Moana's fee remissions:
12 credits of tuition:	$2,321.00	WOU Tuition Grant:	$333.00
Mandatory fees:	$586.00	Upward Bound:	$333.00

Total qualifying charges:	$2,927.00	Total fee remissions:	$833.00

Example 2:

Maui is participating in the concurrent enrollment program so he is enrolled for 6 credits at WOU and 6 credits at Chemeketa Community College. Maui has several fee remission awards. Maui thinks he has enough charges to receive the total of his awards, however, some of the charges on his account cannot be paid for with fee remissions. Since Maui does not have more in WOU tuition and educational fees than fee remissions, he cannot receive his total award for the term.
