Salary Rate: $66,200-70,200

About Western Oregon University:
Western Oregon University is a regional public, mid-sized university – committed to changing lives, strengthening communities, and transforming our world. Located in Monmouth, the heart of Oregon’s Lush Willamette Valley, WOU is about 20 minutes from Salem, the state’s capital and about 75 minutes from Portland, the state’s cultural hub.

Western is one of Oregon’s oldest public institutions of higher education and was incorporated into the state system as a teacher training institution in 1882. The university offers undergraduate and graduate degrees in arts and sciences, education, and professional areas. It’s known for small class sizes, a focus on sustainability and a diverse liberal arts education in a student-centered environment. Western is an emerging Hispanic Serving institution, with 41% of undergraduates being students of color.

Position Summary:
The Research and Writing Center is a new and exciting collaborative support model for students producing academic content across the curriculum and at all levels. The Writing Center Director, in close collaboration with the Research and Access Librarian, shapes the development of the Research and Writing Center to be an effective learning environment. The director also collaborates with a broader range of campus stakeholders to ensure that the Research and Writing Center is meeting the needs of students and faculty and to ensure that students have a fluid experience across academic support services. Informed by these collaborative relationships, the director provides strategic vision, implementation and assessment plans, and professional development opportunities. In addition to serving the entire undergraduate and graduate student population, the Writing Center provides programs that specifically address the writing needs of international students and Spanish-speaking students.
